E. REPORTS

Inspector Derek Needham reviewed the following OPP reports with the members and addressed any questions that arose:

- Q3 Report
- Q3 Collision Report
- PSB Complaints – 3rd Quarter
- PSB 3rd Quarter Calls for Service
- PSB 3rd Collisions

Inspector Needham noted that the 2017 Q3 statistics were overall positive with no major concerns. 'Domestic Violence' is up slightly from last year and is being monitored. 'Trouble with Youth' is down significantly, which seems to be a positive effect from the youth initiatives currently ongoing within Mississippi Mills.

An update was provided on the new unit that was added to the Lanark OPP Detachment earlier in the year. The new unit was created from a Provincial incentive to increase clearance rates on property crimes. The new unit has had great success and continues to grow within the Detachment. By the end of 2017, the OPP is hopeful to have a 20% clearance rate on property crime – a significant increase from previous years.

In the 22nd year running, the Angel Tree project has just wrapped up another successful year. Over 600 gifts were received and donated to families in need within the County.

R.I.D.E programs are in full swing now through the holiday season. Currently there has been an increase in the number of charges issued as compared to previous years. Rural areas seem to have the highest number; most likely due to limited access to inexpensive alternate transportation.

Councillor Jane Torrance inquired about the presence of OPP officers at construction sites. Concern was brought forward by Council about the appropriate use of officers' time and whether or not the Municipality pays directly for this type of service. Inspector Needham confirmed that this service is classified as a 'paid-duty', and when requested, the construction company (or whoever requests the service) pays directly for the officers' time.

Committee members inquired if the OPP knew of any cost increases that might be associated with the legalization of marijuana. Inspector Needham stated that it is too early to tell, and that OPP is still waiting to hear what the provincial legislation was going to look like and what regulations will be in place.

F. BUSINESS ARISING OUT OF MINUTES

1. Updated task chart - No update
2. Discuss format and implementation for a CPAC Annual Report. Tay Valley PSB 2015/2016 Annual Report attached as a model to be considered

A special meeting will be set in January/early February to discuss the format and content of the Annual Report.

Councillor Jane Torrance inquired about what the Committee previously submitted towards the OPP Business Plan earlier in the year. It was requested that the information be recirculated to Committee members as a reminder of the priorities submitted.

H. OTHER/NEW BUSINESS

1. ATV By-Law Enforcement

According to Inspector Needham, no formal complaints were logged through the OPP.

Mayor Shaun McLaughlin was not in attendance to provide further details on the issue. However, Mayor McLaughlin had previously advised people that if they had a complaint regarding ATVs to file them directly with the OPP. At this time, the issue does not seem to be overly concerning to residents.

2. Traffic Concerns on Church Street

There was been lots of correspondence between the residents on Church Street and the Municipality regarding signage and traffic concerns. As previously requested, the OPP did install a speed spy on Church Street. Based on the data collected, excess speeds did not appear to be an issue.

The Roads and Public Works Director confirmed that the yield sign was not replaced due to the guidelines set forth in the Highway Traffic Act.

The committee acknowledges the residents’ concerns regarding traffic on Church Street and will continue to monitor these concerns in 2018.

3. Process for removing vehicles during parades and special events

Neil MacLeod raised a concern regarding the removal of vehicles during parades and special events and relayed a recent incident that occurred in preparations for the Remembrance Day ceremony in Almonte. The members discussed the ability of staff or the OPP about having the ability to call a towing company to remove vehicles that pose a concern to public safety. As agreement on the wording of a motion could not be reached, it was suggested that this matter be deferred to the next meeting for further discussion.

Committee proceeded to Item 7 due to the time constraints for Inspector Needham and Acting Staff Sergeant Dan Sills.

4. Financial report year to date (January - October 31, 2017)

No concerns were expressed by the CAO regarding the financial report.

5. Approval to pay annual dues to the OAPSB (2018 - $652.65) and the OAPSB Zone 2 (2018 - $75)

Moved by Anne Mason

Seconded by Councillor Jane Torrance

THAT the Community Policing Advisory Committee approves payment of annual membership dues to the OAPSB ($652.65) and OAPSB Zone 2 ($75) for 2018.

CARRIED

6. Metro Crime Stoppers Awareness Ad - $70.00 for January feature

No support was provided by the Committee to proceed with the ad.

7. Project Lifesaver and alternatives

Inspector Needham expressed concern regarding the technology used for Project Lifesaver and believes that there are better devices available at a lower cost i.e. a GPS safe tracker that connects to a family member's phone seems to be a more viable and affordable option. The Committee agreed to support GPS technology over the technology used by Project Lifesaver.

No financial support is required at this time. However, the Committee may decide to provide financial support in the future.

I. "IN CAMERA" SESSION

None. The minutes from the "In Camera" session held on August 6, 2013 and June 6, 2017 will be brought forward for approval at the next meeting where an "In Camera" session is held.

- Project Purpose: Bring multiple human-service sectors together to collectively identify systemic issues and risk factors prevalent locally and provide a network of support for vulnerable populations in our community in order to prevent crisis situations.
 - Situation Table with agencies collaborating to identify and intervene in situations of acutely elevated risk
 - Development of a community plan for safety and well-being that will aim to identify local prevalent risks and develop strategies to mitigate them

Project Overview

- Meeting twice per month and ad hoc if needed
- Admin support provided by the stand-alone coordinator position through Perth PSB
- Coordinator also leading community safety planning process

- Brings front-line agencies together to identify situations of acutely elevated risk and intervene with appropriate support
- Front-line, acute-care agencies that are human-service providers with a mandate to provide case management (e.g. counselling, support for basic needs, victim services, health care, probation, housing)
- Process based on Information Privacy Commission guidelines
- Four-filter process and threshold of Acutely Elevated Risk

From Annual Report (up to Sept. 28, 2017)

- 124 referrals since inception
- Using Risk-Tracking Database to track statistics in a de-identified format for referrals, which helps to identify prevalent local risks, vulnerable populations and systemic gaps
- About 65 per cent of the referrals come from police
- Mental health, addictions and criminal involvement are highest risk factors
- From inception to Sept. 30, 2017, 83 (67%) concluded with overall risk lowered. A total of 25 were rejected.

Top Risk Categories

Top Risk Category - Type: All Age: All Sex: All

Notes from Reporting Period

- ❑ Mental health and criminal involvement were top risks. For females mental health was top; for males, criminal involvement
- ❑ More than half of all referrals were young people between 12 and 24
- ❑ Age and sex comparisons for risk factors – track over longer term

Measuring Success

- ❑ Lanark County OPP tracking pre- and post-referrals; showing reduction in CFS
- ❑ From inception to the end of September 2017, OPP made 72 referrals, with 55 proceeding to the intervention stage.
- ❑ CFS between Dec. 9, 2015 and Aug. 9, 2017 dropped from 2,692 to 963
- ❑ Detailed analysis of first five referrals showed reduction of 174 officer hours for those individuals in 14 months following the referral (381 to 207)
- ❑ Pre-referral accused, apprehended, arrested or charged 44 times; post-referral 16 (63.6% reduction)
- ❑ Post-referral contact shows some shift to “complainant” category

Measuring Success

- Although it is difficult to measure something that does not occur, i.e. a 9-1-1 call averted, reduced calls for service for individuals who are connected to more appropriate services, such as mental health and addictions, will result in savings in police costs and will increase efficiencies for first responders.

Measuring Success

I wanted to let you know the positive impact that the recent Situation Table had on one of our students. The quick response of the team has led to the student returning to his school co-op placement. The partners involved are also working on connecting him with more appropriate living arrangements. When I met with him last week, with the community partner and classroom teacher, you could tell that he felt supported and will do his best to graduate from school this year. No one gave up on him. I can't thank you and the members of the Situation Table enough for supporting this student and the dedication to the follow-up steps required to change the trajectory of this young man.

Dear Mr. Fennell:

Thank you for your letter regarding opportunities for provincial funding in support of local Situation Tables. I apologize for the delay in responding.

As you may know, on November 2, 2017, the province introduced Bill 175: Safer Ontario Act, 2017, a comprehensive public safety legislative package that, if passed, would represent the largest policing transformation in a generation. Our government is working to build safer, stronger communities across the province by modernizing the current policing framework to make it community-focused, accountable, sustainable, and culturally responsive.

The Safer Ontario Act would transition the province to a new and holistic approach to community safety and well-being planning. This approach has municipalities leading the development and implementation of mandatory local Community Safety and Well-Being Plans that address local needs and issues.

Community safety and well-being planning has a wide-range of positive impacts for local agencies, organizations and front-line service providers, as well as the broader community, including the general public. Moreover, municipalities who undertake planning will reduce the financial burden of crime through cost-effective approaches with significant return on investments.

To learn more about community safety and well-being planning, please refer to the Community Safety and Well-Being Planning: A Shared Commitment in Ontario booklet, which is available on the Ministry website at:

<http://www.mcscs.jus.gov.on.ca/english/Publications/MCSCSSSOPlanningFramework.html>.

The booklet contains practical guidance on how to develop a plan, including a sample community safety and well-being plan. It is intended to act as a resource to assist municipalities, First Nation communities and their partners as they engage in this type of collaborative, multi-sector planning.

In relation to your specific concerns about Situation Tables, the Ministry of Community Safety and Correctional Services offers a number of different funding opportunities in support of crime prevention, community safety and well-being initiatives.

For example, the Safer and Vital Communities (SVC) Grant provides one-time funding to non-profit, community organizations as well as First Nations Chiefs and Band Councils to implement local community safety and well-being projects. The focus of the SVC Grant is always on community safety and well-being, but the specific theme may vary from time to time, depending on the ministry's priorities. Applicants are required to partner with their local police service as well as organizations from different sectors. The SVC Grant is typically a two-year program with a maximum funding allocation of $35,000 per year. Please be advised that the SVC Grant will not cover expenses related to an organization's on-going operational costs. It is intended to support the development and/or implementation of new projects.

Further, the ministry also offers other grants, such as the Proceeds of Crime (POC) – Front-Line Policing (FLP) Grant, which reinvests assets seized by provincial and federal governments during criminal prosecutions, to support front-line policing efforts related to crime prevention and community safety and well-being initiatives. The POC-FLP Grant is available to municipal and First Nations police services, as well as the Ontario Provincial Police, in partnership with organizations from other sectors. Similar to the SVC Grant, the theme for the POC-FLP Grant may be different from year to year. The maximum funding allocation for this grant is $100,000 (unless partnering with another police service).

For your reference, Ministry staff are currently accepting applications for some grant programs, including the SVC Grant. Please note that application is due by January 22, 2018, for the SVC Grant. For more information about the SVC Grant, please contact Ms. Fionne Yip by e-mail at: Fionne.Yip@ontario.ca, or call her at 416-314-0206. For information about other grants, please contact Mr. Ramanan Thanabalasingam by e-mail at Ramanan.Thanabalasingam@ontario.ca, or call him at 416-314-0158.

Finally, in support of community safety well-being planning, the ministry offers the Risk-Driven Tracking Database (RTD) free of charge to interested communities. The RTD provides a standardized means of gathering de-identified information on situations of elevated risk for communities that have implemented multi-sectoral risk intervention models (such as Situation Tables). It is one tool that enables the collection data about local priority risks and evolving trends to assist with the community safety and well-being planning process.

Thank you for writing.

Sincerely,

MOVING UPSTREAM

Rethinking crime prevention at the municipal level

By most standards, Canada is a pretty safe country. And, Canada is continuing to get safer, as the national crime rate has been decreasing since the 1990s, with a small increase in 2003 and 2015.¹ The level of safety in communities and cities becomes clear when compared to other countries. In Canada, we often compare ourselves to the U.S. Overall, the U.S. and Canada have very different crime rates. For example, the homicide rate in Canada is less than a third of that in the U.S. (1.5 versus five homicides per 100,000 people per year). By this comparison, Canada looks incredibly safe. Yet, when compared to European countries such as England, Germany, and Sweden, with homicide rates of one homicide per 100,000 people per year, it becomes clear that Canada could do better.

Setting the Stage with the Right Questions

The question then becomes: what is the most efficient and effective way to reduce crime?

We now have evidence that municipalities across the country can lower their crime and victimization rates without increasing involvement in law enforcement and the justice system. Municipalities can reduce crime by investing in evidence-based prevention programs and initiatives; more specifically, by investing in young people through social development with municipal government. An example of investing in young people is Le Club de L'Espoir (featured in the April 2017 issue of Municipal World), which provides extracurricular programming for financially disadvantaged youth in a Montreal community. Increasing crime prevention locally will also help control the rising costs of enforcement, as it will decrease crime and victimization.

Why should municipalities care? Well, it has long been established that municipalities play a significant role in preventing crime. They are well positioned to coordinate and direct multi-sectoral services to areas where those services are most needed.

The Cost of Crime and Enforcement

Crime and victimization are costly. In Canada, harm from interpersonal crime costs approximately $55 billion annually (this includes loss of property and wages, health care costs, as well as pain, suffering, and trauma). In the municipal context, for every 100,000 people, the accumulated costs due to crime are estimated at $150 million – for a municipality of one million people, crime costs are $1.5 billion.

Due to increasing police costs, enforcement adds an additional layer of cost to municipalities, despite declining crime across Canada. In fact, across the country, approximately 60 percent of policing costs are paid by municipal property taxes. Furthermore, between 2002 and 2012, policing costs have increased at a rate of 43 percent above inflation. For many municipalities, this poses a challenge best described by the Federation of Canadian Municipalities in 2016 as “unsustainable growth in policing and public safety costs for municipalities,” which is “... crowding out other essential services such as early intervention and crime prevention programs.”

FELIX MUNGER is the Managing Consultant for the Canadian Municipal Network on Crime Prevention. A long-time advocate of cohesive, just, and inclusive communities, Felix and his team members at the Sustainable Societies Consulting Group focus their work on social and environmental sustainability. He can be reached at <felix@safercities.ca>.

What Works to Prevent Crime?

It is important to note that many of us have an inherent bias that suggests more police results in less crime. However, rising expenditures on enforcement do not reduce common crime. The Council of Canadian Academies indicates that if per capita numbers of police officers and expenditures on enforcement were linked to crime rates, the U.S. should be one of the safest countries. This does not mean there is no role for enforcement in working toward creating safe communities; enforcement is a key component in any strategy. But, it must be considered simply as one component, working together with many others.

So, if increasing enforcement is not the answer, what prevents crime? The health care system has long shown that prevention is better and more cost effective than treatment. This same principle applies to crime. In fact, we know today that well-coordinated and well-funded crime prevention programs and initiatives that address the risk factors of crime (e.g., attitudes toward women, motivations to offend, poverty, neighbourhood conditions, and social exclusion) increase the quality of life of those living in Canada, while simultaneously offering savings for taxpayers. Many national and international organizations (e.g., the U.S. Department of Justice and the World Health Organization) have evaluated the impacts of such programs and have provided a large and growing evidence base. They conclude that tackling the risk factors that cause crime is by far the most effective and fiscally responsible way to reduce crime.

The 4th R program (developed in London, Ontario) prevents sexual and dating violence by adding a relationship dimension to the traditional three Rs of high school curricula: Reading, wRiting, and aRithmetic. At a cost of just $16 per student, a random control trial (in 22 schools with over 1,700 students) produced a 25 percent reduction in dating violence.

Another good example is from Kirkholt in the United Kingdom. The multi-sectoral neighbourhood watch program, combined with initiatives focused on reducing the motivation to commit crime (e.g., provision of work programs, school-based crime prevention programs, better information for probation officers and courts, and the establishment of a credit union), resulted in a 75 percent reduction of residential break-ins within four years.

Of course, diversion programs such as assisted outpatient treatment, drug courts, as well as the HUB/COR model out of Prince Albert, have proven effective for lowering re-offending and are at the forefront of many municipal plans.

Advancing Crime Prevention

Based on experiences across Canada as well as national and international reports, well-planned municipal approaches to crime can significantly reduce street, intimate partner, and other interpersonal violence. Municipal approaches are often guided by a municipal crime prevention office that facilitates collaborative action and engages communities to: adapt evidence-based crime prevention programming to the local context; support efforts that contribute to a crime prevention agenda; and provide education, training, and a place for knowledge exchange.

Below are two Canadian examples.

Waterloo Region

The Waterloo Region Crime Prevention Council (WRCPC) started in 1994 with a motion to regional council to establish a crime prevention task force to advise on crime prevention challenges and opportunities and mobilize multiple sectors such as schools, restorative justice agencies, and many others. Twenty years later, the WRCPC is made up of seven staff in a central office that is core funded by the regional government, including persons working on community engagement, research, and communications.

mobility, contributes heavily to my being able to make these choices. And, perhaps some of my personal trajectory has been influenced in a Newtonian way by the nature of the professional opportunities I perceived around me. After all, if all you have is a hammer (or a short window of opportunity), everything looks like a nail (and you should pounce while you can). However, it would take both hands and feet (and many more) for me to count the number of peers who have been put in precarious and perpetual contract positions that make it impossible for them to consider home ownership or even going to the dentist, often for years on end when they were originally only supposed to have an 18-month contract that was expected to evolve into something more permanent – but just kept being replaced by another short-term contract. It's time to seriously consider what this kind of perpetual motion machine does to our institutions, our communities, and our people.

I grew up hearing my dad say that not making a choice is still a choice – because something else will make the decision for you, whether it's someone else or simply opportunities lost to time – and you will very likely not like the choice made for you but not by you. I also grew up hearing my mother repeat a phrase from her mother: "People will cool off in the water they got hot in" – which is to say, sometimes a little time and distance can help take the sting and urgency out of something that isn't really a crisis. These two approaches might seem counter to each other, but really, they play to differing sides of the inertia coin. And, sometimes you have to flip that coin to get to the right course of action (or inaction, as it were). It seems to me that, collectively, we made some choices about staffing our organizations when the water was hot, and now we need to figure out what we're going to do now that it's cooled off. MW

CRIME, cont'd from p. 26

Most importantly, the in-kind support and investment from the community partners far outweigh the investment from the regional government. Over the past 20 years, this small backbone office has greatly mobilized community to go further upstream and create a culture of social development for crime prevention. A multi-sector community board, representing many of the agencies that have the capacity to contribute to a broader crime prevention agenda, also supports the WRCPC <www.preventingcrime.ca>.

City of Red Deer

Following the convening of a community safety committee to develop the first local strategy for community safety and crime prevention in 2014, the City of Red Deer approved $100,000 in one-time funding to begin implementing an approach that includes broad-based strategies such as education, prevention, and intervention toward the vision of a safe community. Some of the key components of the strategy include the creation of a Centre of Responsibility to serve as a steward of community safety, as well as a hub to focus on immediate interventions needed in the community.

This article is based on a number of different Canadian Municipal Network on Crime Prevention (CMNCP) documents, including those produced by staff from the University of Ottawa on behalf of CMNCP.

Suggestions for Municipalities

Municipalities can take important steps toward preventing crime in their communities:

- create a crime prevention task force;
- develop a safety diagnosis;
- develop a community safety plan;
- implement a backbone organization to coordinate crime prevention efforts; and
- create multi-sectoral partnerships to address crime prevention (ideally such partnerships include health, social services, police, community members, businesses, education, etc.).²

Investing as little as 0.1 percent of Canada's GDP in evidence-based prevention strategies today can reduce the harm of interpersonal violence by at least 50 percent in about 10 years.

The Canadian Municipal Network on Crime Prevention (CMNCP)

For over 10 years, members of CMNCP have fostered community safety and wellbeing through crime prevention strategies that complement enforcement and the criminal justice system. As a community of practice, CMNCP member municipalities:

- have access to evidence on effective crime prevention strategies;
- share best and promising crime prevention practices;
- learn from the practical experiences of other members; and
- collaboratively work toward greater investment in effective crime prevention from all orders of government.

By joining CMNCP, municipalities can also help the call on the provincial, territorial, and federal governments to increase investment in local crime prevention strategies. MW

AMO Makes Submission on Policing - Bill 175, Safer Ontario Act

The Association of Municipalities of Ontario has made a written submission to the Standing Committee on Justice Policy concerning Bill 175, Safer Ontario Act, 2017.

The full submission is available here. AMO also supports the call of the Ontario Association of Police Service Boards (OAPSB) that Boards be assured access to professional advice when at the bargaining table negotiating collective agreements. AMO also supports the measures included in Schedules 2-4 which focus on oversight agencies and processes.

Ontarians pay the highest policing costs in the country. Democratically elected local officials must provide for the full range of municipal services that keep Ontarians safe and healthy. That includes, but is not limited to, the financial needs of police services across the province and the OPP's municipal mandate.

AMO encourages municipal governments to make written submissions to the Committee to reinforce the above themes and/or share other municipal concerns. A request to make an oral presentation is due February 16 by 10:00am; written submissions are due March 1 by 6:00pm. Hearing details are available here.

Areas of the bill of keen interest to municipal leaders include the following:

1. Mandating municipalities to develop Community Safety and Well-Being Plans (Part VIII, Section 187)

Proposed Municipal Changes:

1. Limit the scope of this mandate based on the size of a municipality or where an acute local public safety need exists.
2. Require participation of the Police Chief (or police service representatives).
3. Instead of legislation that punishes municipalities for non-compliance, encourage the development of such plans through outreach and financial support.

2. Civilianization (Use of Personnel, Part III, Section 13)

Proposed Municipal Changes:

1. Permit the civilianization of court security and prisoner transportation functions.
2. Permit the civilianization of all specific functions listed in the Bill to include corporate entities.
3. Permit the civilianization of minor property offences, directing traffic, and crime scene security.

3. Consolidation of OPP Police Service Boards and Role (Schedule 1, Part V)

Proposed Municipal Changes:

1. Provide assurance in law that all municipalities will be represented on OPP Boards.
2. Provide some greater assurance in law that powers of an OPP Board are as similar as possible to those of an own-force board.
3. The OPP Police Governance Advisory Council should establish a mechanism to receive and provide advice to the Minister of Community Safety and Correctional Services and the President of the Treasury Board with respect to the fiscal position of municipal governments to inform the government's bargaining position with the Ontario Provincial Police Association.

4. Police Service Boards (Part IV, own force)

Proposed Municipal Changes:

1. Either mandate diversity plans for both police service boards and police services or strike diversity plan requirement for boards.
2. Require in law that the provincial government expedite the appointment of its representatives to boards and in so doing, increase the diversity on a Police Service Board. This is consistent with the findings of shortcomings and delays noted by the Auditor General of Ontario's report on Public Appointments.
3. Diminish restrictions on former police officers servicing on a board to within one year of employment by a service.

5. Establishment of a Provincial Inspector General (Part VI)

Proposed Municipal Changes:

1. Supporting boards in fulfilling their function should be a mandate of this office.
2. The Inspector General should be an independent office of the Legislative Assembly.

6. Suspension without Pay (Part IX, Section 150)

Proposed Municipal Changes:

1. AMO support further amendments which ensure the ability of a Chief to maintain discipline within the police service.

7. Waterways Policing (Part III, Section 6)

Proposed Municipal Changes:

1. Provide greater legislative clarity to avoid overlap with waterways currently policed by the OPP.
